

New education packages

are now available following the launch of Ascendance Rep's ground-breaking dance piece 'My Castle | A Company of All Ages' choreographed by Artistic Director Rachel Wesson, performed by 12 dancers ranging between 5 - 70 years.

My Castle is both a light-hearted and melancholic study of pleasures and pastimes in medieval England, encompassing literature, paintings, music, social dances, banquets, war and loss.

Visit www.ascendance.org.uk/repertoire for further information

The dance begins with Shenanigans in the garden with the traditional games of Chess, Blind Man's Bluff and piggyback wrestling. In the popular Dance of the Knights and Ladies we see the dancers march together with heroic strength with an inevitable end through the dance of death where we are asked to pause for reflection. The dance of peace embodies the daily strain of loss and loneliness experienced by women in powerful positions such as Anne Clifford who was the last Clifford to own Skipton Castle in the 17th century. A traditional social dance starts the celebration banquet dance – an escape from the reality of our daily lives.
